

Read all about it!

Funeral Insurance: Not a Magic Money Pot

Josh Shiloh, exec. director Strepz Hous ("Grandma Witch") had a magic pasta pot. In Tomb, she'd cook a beloved child's story, it was that it got produced such a lot of pasta that it spe-

Note the belated word:
"risk." "Discretion," insurance is a product you buy to protect yourself in the case of an unusual problem you can't prevent.

HOWEVER,
I PROTECTED
OUR FAMILY WITH FULL EXPOSURE
INSURANCE AT AFFORDABLE
MONTHLY
RATES!
THAT WAS LOWER DUMB.

It's fun to believe in magic pots as a child. Carrying that belief into adulthood... not so much. And yet the majority of green-ups I talk to at Funeral Consumers Alliance think a "burial insurance" or "funeral insur-

every single customer facing...
Let's see how this works in a real life example. Mrs. L, who lives in Florida, bought a prepaid
cremation with an insurance contract from National Guardian Life
Insurance Company in 2001.

every single customer facing...
Let's see how this works in a real life example. Mrs. L, who lives in Florida, bought a prepaid
cremation with an insurance contract from National Guardian Life
Insurance Company in 2001.

- The new Grim Reader is out
- The spring FCA Newsletter is full of practical tips
- We're featured on lifehacker.com talking about why you don't need to spend a ton on a funeral!