

Minnesota Public Radio

October 24, 2012

As environmental consciousness has grown in the country..., traditional funerals are becoming less common. More people, particularly baby boomers, are looking toward natural burial practices and foregoing rituals like embalming and caskets buried in concrete vaults.

Read the full article at Minnesota Public Radio

RELATED LINK

Home vigil honors a mother's last wish